INDIAN HISTORY

As has already been seen, the Indians played a very important part in the early history of the town. The physical advantages of the location, their burial place on Lane's Island, and the importance of the place to them from its situation in relation to other towns, lead the Indians to resist the advance of the whites with a hostility more indomitable and deadly than they exhibited towards most other settlements in the state. Owing to this, the lands in the interior continued to be laid waste and the inhabitants, though living near together, were often obliged to forsake their dwellings. Husbands and fathers were killed and wives and children carried into captivity. Compelled to carry arms in their walks, their labors and their worship, the inhabitants said: "There is no peace to him that goeth out nor to him that cometh in. We get our bread at the peril of our lives because of the sword of the wilderness." Mr. William Scales, father of Deacon Thomas and Matthew

Scales, was killed in the year 1725 on the Scales farm, and soon after Joseph Felt, father of Mrs. Peter Weare, was killed at Broad Cove, Felt's wife and children were carried into captivity and afterwards redeemed by Capt Weare. Joseph Weare, a grandson of Felt, never lost an opportunity to be revenged on the Indians. Several stories told concerning him, the truth of which the writer would not vouch for, are quoted from "Old Times." Weare once lived near the bank of the Androscoggin river at Lewiston Falls. In some way he learned that a war party had planned to descend the river one dark night and attack the settlers in that vicinity. In order to prevent getting too near the falls in the darkness, they sent one of their number down the river to build a fire on the island some way above the falls. After nightfall Weare surprised and killed the sentinel, extinguished the fire, and built another on the island just at the head of the falls, now known locally as Island Garden. The Indians, feeling secure as long as they were above the beacon light were caught in the rapids before they realized their danger and were carried over the falls to death. On another occasion Weare was splitting rails near his home when six Indians approached him and asked if he could tell them where Joe Weare lived, to which question the quick-witted old scout replied in the affirmative and offered to show them the person they sought as soon as he had finished splitting the log on which he was then at work. When "Joe" had driven in his wedge and had the log well opened he asked the Indians to help him by pulling on each side as he drove the wedge; to this the party agreed and took hold, three on each side, with their fingers in the crack of the log, when Weare, by a dexterous blow of the sledge, knocked out the wedge causing the seam to close like a vice upon their hands and leaving them at the mercy of their terrible enemy, who as he gave each a death blow with his axe shouted in the ears of his victims: "I'm Joe Weare, d— you, I'm Joe Weare."

The hostility of Weare towards the Indians was never abated. He swore to kill one for every drop of blood they drew from the veins of his brother-in-law.

Philip Greely, ancestor of the Greely family of this section, and of Portland, was killed Aug. 9, 1746, at the lower Falls, near the house of the late Mr. Daniel True, when a company of thirty-two Indians had secreted themselves intending to surprise Weare's garrison when the men should have gone to work. They were discovered by Mr. Greely's dog, else they had probably suffered him to pass unmolested. Though Mr. Greely lost his life, this probably saved the garrison.

It was in a skirmish with the savages that Walter Gendall, one of the bravest and foremost men of the early days was slain by a shot through the body. Separated from his men by the river he suddenly noticed that they ceased firing, and by their signal he knew that their ammunition was exhausted and that they were at the mercy of the savages. Against the entreaties of his wife and family he determined to risk the chance of death, by crossing the open river to save his men. He managed to get safely by the middle of the stream, but as the boat touched shore he received a bullet in the body and immediately expired, having only time to throw the ammunition ashore and say: "I have lost my life in your service." The party were now enabled to maintain their ground till night came on when the Indians retreated.

On Saturday, May 4th, 1756, a large party of Indians appeared at Topsham, where they separated, one party to go to New Meadows, and the other to North Yarmouth. The latter party, at day-break, on Sabbath morning, assaulted the house of Mr. Thomas Maines, at Flying Point, now Freeport, which, though well fortified, they finally entered. John Martin was in the chamber of the house with a loaded gun, but not being able in the darkness to find it, kept himself concealed. Mr. Maines, his wife and children, and a sister of Mrs. Maines, Miss Skinner by name, were dragged from the house, and Mr. Maines shot near by; meanwhile Mrs. Maines and the children succeeded in regaining the house and fastening the door. A ball from the gun of an Indian entered the house and was fatal to an infant in the arms of Mrs. Maines. At length the Indians again entered the dwelling, but Martin, pointing his gun, which he had found, through the chamber floor, dropped one of them in the entry; retaining the sister of Mrs. Maines and bearing away their wounded man they hastily departed. Mr. Maines is said to have been the last inhabitant of the town to be killed by the natives. These are only a few typical illustrations of the warfare that was continually raging.

To summarize the Indian wars which bore directly on the history of ancient North Yarmouth: In 1675 the Indians began a war of extermination, and the settlers were obliged to abandon their homes which were pillaged and burned. After three years, peace was made and the inhabitants returned to their desolate homes.

In 1688 there was another outbreak. The saw mills were burned and many inhabitants butchered. Forced to abandon their homes the second time the few surviving settlers removed to Jewell's Island and built a fort there to protect themselves until they could return to Massachusetts.

Soon after the breaking out of the war between France and England in 1744 hostilities were resumed, and for several years the savages sought the destruction of the English settlers.

The old redoubt on Prince's Point behind which is a grass covered lawn succeeded by a beautiful grove was the annual resort of the Indians in the early days. The high bank to the left of the redoubt is for many rods composed of shells intermixed with soil which is the accumulation of these annual feasts. To the right the falling bank occasionally discloses an Indian skeleton showing this bank to have been to them the place of burial for their dead, and the feasts were probably held to the departed warriors.

FIRST SETTLEMENT.

The capacious bay adjacent, its fine harbors and numerous islands, its small but valuable river, fish, game, and a bountiful supply of timber favorably situated for exportation, early invited white settlers to No. Yarmouth. The town of No. Yarmouth was settled in 1680. It was originally called Wescustogo, the Indian name for Royal River. But at its incorporation, which was the same year as its settlement, its name was changed to North Yarmouth.

FIRST PURCHASE OF LAND.

As early as 1640, Geo. Felt, born in 1600, lived in a stone garrison at Broad Cove on land which he purchased of John Phillips, a Welchman, who had probably before occupied it, and which in 1643 he repurchased of an agent of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, proprietor of Maine.

About the same period William Royal, who came from England, was living on a farm on the east side of the river which bears his name. John Cousins as early as 1637 was living near the neck of land dividing the branches of Cousins River, and a little later (1645) purchased the island which bears his name.

Other inhabitants at an early period were Richard Bray, who, in 1647, bought one half of Cousins Island; James Lane; John Maine, on Maine Point; John Holman on Holman's (Princes Point); Thos. Reading on east side Cousins River; Thomas Wise, Thomas Shepherd, Nicholas White, Thomas Blashfield, Amos Stevens, and Walter Gendall. The settlement steadily grew and in 1674 a man by the name of Sayward erected the first saw mill at the lower falls on the east side of the river.

The settlement had now existed for a period of from 30 to 40 years. About 1675 King Philip's war commenced, when the inhabitants fled to the westerly towns where they could be defended, and the mill recently erected and most of the dwellings were burned.

SECOND OCCUPATION.

Peace was again concluded at Falmouth, April, 1678, and the inhabitants, many of whom survived, began to return to their deserted homes. Walter Gendall purchased the tract of land on which H. Sayward had formerly built a saw mill, and rebuilt the structure. A brisk business was carried on. One half the mill rented for 50,000 feet of merchantable boards per annum. A corn mill was now erected at the lower falls, and Gendall had a dwelling house on the east side of the river Royal, near his mills, and one of rude construction for his men on the opposite shore.

This takes us up to 1680, when the town was incorporated under the name of No. Yarmouth. A committee consisting of B. Gedney, Walter Gendall, Joshua Scotton and Silvanus Davis were appointed to superintend the laying out of the town. Under their direction the town was laid out on a spot then known as Maine's Point.

The committee above named was soon superceded by the appointment of John Royal, John York, John Harris, and Walter Gendall as trustees of the town, and at a town meeting in Feb. 1685, grants of land were made to a large number of the inhabitants.

The families were now about 36 in number, located chiefly along the river and sea shore. They had now enjoyed a ten years period of peace and prosperity. The Indians had not molested them and they had not only repaired the havoc wrought by King Philip's war, but had made some advance.

In 1688 the little colony of hardy settlers, now numbering 160, was doomed to another disaster in the breaking out of King William's war. The Indians poured in upon them, and those who survived betook themselves to Jewell Island and thence to Boston.

THIRD SETTLEMENT.

No attempt was made to repeople the town until 1713 when the town had been desolate for about twenty-five years and the traces of habitation had almost been obliterated. But finally the sons, the grandsons, and a few of the old inhabitants, came back to the ashes of the former habitations.

The settlement slowly revived and in 1722 the population was about 100. During that year, at the petition of the inhabitants and other claimants of the possessions in No. Yarmouth, the general court appointed a committee consisting of William Taylor, Elisha Cook, William Dudley, John Smith and John Powell to superintend the settlement.

This committee directed the affairs of the settlement until 1733, when they proposed to the General Court that they be dismissed and that the settlement have the rights and privileges enjoyed by other towns. This proposal was agreed to and a town meeting was at once called and regular town officers chosen.

The growth of the town was slow, due largely to the continual wars with the Indians. After 1760 the Indians became less troublesome and people began to venture back three and four miles from the salt water, and the population of the town rapidly increased. The rest from wars, however, was soon interrupted by the war of the Revolution. The inhabitants of the town engaged with one voice in opposing the earliest acts of aggression by Great Britain.

At an early meeting on the 20th of May previous to the Declaration of Independence the citizens voted that "Should the Honourable Congress for the safety of the united Colonies declare them independent of the kingdom of Great Britain that inhabitants of this town do solemnly engage with their lives and fortunes to support Congress in the measure."

After the war was over, and the work at the mills and on the farms once more in progress the town made rapid strides in population and prosperity. Ship building became a prominent industry and later a cotton mill was erected. The business comprised six stores, saw, grist, fulling, card and paper mills, jewelry, clocks, cabinets, saddle, chaise and wagon shops, and three blacksmith shops. Two tanneries, brick yard, ship yard, two taverns and a busy stage line.

INCORPORATION

The earliest bounds of the ancient town of Westcustogo, or North Yarmouth, were, "beginning at the sea coast, at a white rock, adjoining Falmouth, N. W., eight miles, then N. E. about eleven miles, until intersected by a line running N. W. from the mouth of the Bungonug river and from the white rock and the mouth of the river, to extend S. E. to the sea." By these lines Mare Point, Merriconeag, Chebeague, and a large number of minor islands, and Small Point at the mouth of the Kennebec river, were included within the limits of this venerable mother.

Mare Point was set off to Brunswick in 1739 and Small Point to Georgetown in 1741. Merriconeag and the islands adjacent were incorporated as Harpswell in 1758. Freeport was set off and incorporated a town in 1789 (this town then included Pownal and was called "Harrisickett"). Cumberland was set off and incorporated in 1821 and Yarmouth in 1849. This town is now a small township removed from the coast, but she is proud of her thrifty and enterprising children.

The town of Cumberland was set off for the convenience of its citizens. They were far removed from the center of the town, which was then of considerable extent, and petitioned for their separation, in the spring of 1820.

The following is a list of petitioners for a new town:

MILITARY MATTERS

The military history of the towns of Cumberland and North Yarmouth is a source of just pride. If one thing more than another is to be revered and commemorated, impressed upon the minds of the rising generation, that thing is the record of names and deeds of men who faced the dangers of the battlefield for the welfare and safety of the country. Time rolls on and we are apt to forget the value of the service rendered by the soldier in war. Each succeeding generation is more forgetful of these things than its predecessor unless it is taught to revere and love the memory of the deeds of the soldier. It should be in the mind of each father and each mother to instill into the mind of the youth the significance of the inscriptions, "Killed at Gettysburg," "Wounded at Vicksburg," "died in Libby Prison," etc. No one should lose the opportunity to impress upon the generation to which he belongs and the one which follows the responsibility which rests upon each man.

It is with pleasure that we attempt to give the names of those who have served in the armies of the United States from these towns.

The following list of soldiers from the town of Cumberland has been compiled from the Maine Adjutant General's reports:

Hiram Annis, M. D. Adkins, A. S. Bean, E. J. Brown, John Becker, Frederick Bruce, F. W. Blanchard, John Bates, J. R. Barston, S. L. Blanchard, H. E. Blanchard, J. H. Blanchard, W. J. Bryan, S. L. ## SCHOOL ITEMS

We cannot do better than to cast a glance toward the typical common school as known in Maine in the early days. Even as soon as our forefathers, almost invariably of Puritan extraction, had located themselves in the forests of the Pine Tree State and began their efforts of erecting churches, they made provision for the common school. They in common with us of today considered education the bulwark of our institutions, the institutions for the establishment of which they had fought and bled. They knew therefore, better than we, how much depended upon the proper guidance of the newly established government. They saw their liberties and property, we had almost said, wrapt up in the future of the new government which Washington had said was "one today and thirteen tomorrow." Is it a strange thing that these people who so well understood the significance of these trying years, should so thoroughly grasp at the thought that in the education of the masses lay their only hope of ultimate success? No, they saw well their duty, and as pioneers prepared to meet it. A room in the little log cabin became the university of the wilderness and humble as was this first effort, mighty results came from it. From out of these rough, low-roofed structures walked men who were yet to meet the representatives of the courts of Europe, in the battlefield, in diplomacy, and in scores of other capacities from which they were emerged unscathed. This system of education went on till it almost became a necessary thing for a man to reach the president's chair that he be able to present a career begun in "The Little Red Schoolhouse" in the backwoods hamlet. It was not that the people loved wealth and culture less, but that they loved the more the homely virtues inspired by the healthy atmosphere of the country. And as we look back today over the progress of our school system we dwell with pride upon the record it has made. But this system, like all others, was expected to advance and it has advanced. The town of North Yarmouth, in common with other towns, reared the homely structures on the hillsides and at the cross roads, hired male teachers at $10 to $15 a month, and female teachers at 75 cents to $1.50 a week and this with the "Board Round" provision.

The development of the public schools of the towns of Cumberland and North Yarmouth has been one of steady growth and advancement. The cause of education was greatly assisted in 1858 by the establishment of Greely Institute, which succeeded the temporary, local high school, and has given to the town an advanced institution of learning which provides for its children an opportunity of laying the foundation for a college course, or of fitting for normal work.

The Chebeague Island high school was opened in April 1902 for the purpose of giving to the young men and women of this isolated locality the same privileges and possibilities of obtaining an education as are enjoyed by those in more favored localities. This school opened with 27 students and has made very satisfactory advancement.

The town of Cumberland has a school fund of over $1300 which produces a sufficient dividend each year to assist very materially in supporting her town schools.

GREELY INSTITUTE

Greely Institute was founded by Hon. Eliphalet Greely, a native of the town, who bequeathed $7,000 to erect a building, $20,000 as a fund for its support, and $1,000 to purchase a library. The selectmen of the town are ex-officio trustees. The principals of this Institute have been: Thomas J. Emery, 1867-68; Chas. Chamberlain, Isaac Quimby, George M. Seiders, W. H. Hemmingway, John M. Hawkes, Chas. T. Hawes, D. B. Fuller, S. K. Hitchings, W. A. Hoyt, F. E. Parlin, H. N. Dunham, Wilson Nevens, Fairfield Whitney, A. M., E. L. Pennell, A. B., P. F. Williams, Everett Peacock, A. B., S. M. Hamlin, H. H. Randall, A. B.,

H. H. Williams, and Clarence W. Pierce. Special mention should be made of the work of Prof. Fairfield Whitney, who remained in the school for several years and was a popular and successful instructor. The school has always done good work, and many of its graduates have filled positions of trust and honor.

INDUSTRIAL ACCOUNT

SHIP BUILDING

Naturally ship building was an early occupation since this was one of the things that was necessary to the early settlement. But it was not long before this became an important commercial industry and the town of North Yarmouth is known to have early held a large interest in navigation and shipbuilding, and ably supported the valued reputation gained by her early workmen.

Yarmouth vessels were noted for their thorough construction, their graceful models and their superior sailing qualities. With its unrivaled facilities for constructing and floating vessels this industry was one of the most profitable and substantial sources of wealth to the place.

These vessels were built not only at the water's edge but back in the vicinity of Walnut Hill and elsewhere, in the very midst of the growing timber. They were then hauled by oxen in the winter down to the Falls, perhaps a distance of five or six miles, and deposited upon the ice in the river, or upon its shores, ready for the "Spring Opening." Samuel Chase is said to have built several crafts in the vicinity of Walnut Hill. What was probably the last vessel built there was a craft of 40 or 50 tons which was hauled in the spring of 1843.

The old ship yards of Cumberland, where several of the older residents worked at shipbuilding, are remembered by many of younger generations. We find mention of two brigs, the "N. M. Haven" of 405.98 tons was built in 1863, and the "Woodside," 609.31 tons in 1866. "The Grape Shot," which made one of the swiftest trips around Cape Horn that is on record was also built here.

PRESENT-DAY INDUSTRIES

The mercantile industries now followed by the citizens of Cumberland and North Yarmouth are varied, and are often of a different nature than those which claimed the attention of preceding generations. There are yet a half dozen saw mills and one or two grist mills where formerly there were two or three times that number, and the manufacture of "shook" and staves is now nearly discontinued. Ship building is but a memory, and a source of just pride to the venerable citizens who, during the days of their youth, and young manhood, worked twelve hours each day at the stern labor which produced the sailing craft that was recognized abroad as of the best constructed anywhere on the Maine coast—or on the Globe.

The fertile farms, which, extending some distance back from the coast, have the peculiar distinction of being "rockless", are generally well cultivated and repay the farmers by producing good crops of hay, potatoes, corn, grain and garden truck. The soil in the east is a clayey loam, and except for frequent erosions is generally level. In the west the surface is somewhat broken by granite ledges. Hay and potatoes are shipped by railroad—of which these towns have exceptional accommodations—and many acres of sweet corn are planted for the canning factory.

But farming is not now confined to agriculture, for horticulture, stock raising and dairying, poultry farming and even trout farming have become of considerable commercial importance. These we will take up more fully later.

On Chebeague and the other islands the citizens are generally interested in fishing or are in the Government employ. Many of the Islanders are expert and skilled stone masons whose regular work is the construction of lighthouses or breakwaters, generally for the U. S. Government. The fishermen are generally thrifty and prosperous, and partake of that hearty good nature characteristic of a fishing community.

In detail,—the sawmills which are now in operation are Hollis Mountford's, L. H. Wilson's and O. S. Thomes', in Cumberland, and Isaac E. Hayes in North Yarmouth.

Mr Mountford's saw and grist mill is at West Cumberland on the brook which is the outlet of Goose pond. When Mr. Montford purchased the site about 40 years ago it was occupied by an old grist mill. He built a new mill and increased the water power by improving the dam. There was a carding mill located south of the bridge, near Mr. Mountford's mill. The carding mill was run by a Mr. Purvis. "Grandmother Wilson" as she is called, living at West Cumberland, says she distinctly remembers going there to get the wool carded, and spinning there. This mill has entirely crumbled to decay and its site is now overgrown.

Mr. L. H. Wilson's mill on the same stream is on the site of an old saw mill which was owned and run by many of the farmers in the neighborhood, each running a certain length of time each season, or until he had got out enough lumber for his own use. The old mill was purchased about 1875 by Mr. Wilson and used as a saw, stave, and grist mill. Mr. O. S. Thomes runs a steam saw and grist mill at Cumberland Center. This was established by Mr. Thomes about 20 years ago.

There is also an old stave and shook mill located on Cold Water Stream. This was built by Levi H. Morrill, the present owner, in 1854 or '55. The last business done here was about 10 years ago; at that time, Mr. Morrill and his son did quite an extensive business manufacturing corn cases.

The canning factory, located at Cumberland Junction, was established in 1881, by Merrill Brothers. A few years later it was sold to Wm. R. Wood, of Portland, who is the present proprietor, but runs the business as The United Packers. The capacity is 3000 cans per day. Corn is canned extensively, but other vegetables and fruit are handled. While under the management of Merrill Bros. meat was also canned.

Poultry farming has become one of the leading industries of this locality, being followed by many of the enterprising farmers, among whom we would mention Shaw Bros. (Winfield and Edgar), Samuel and George Porter, R. H. Anderson, Levi Morrill and Geo. Hall, in Cumberland; Gardiner Leighton, Fred Merrill and J. F. Mountford at Walnut Hill; and Nathaniel Shurtleff, Harry Dolloff and Sidney Leighton, all in North Yarmouth. White Wyandottes, Plymouth rocks and Rhode Island reds are the principal breeds kept. Many eggs are shipped for hatching. Shaw Bros.' poultry business was established at the old Shaw homestead at West Cumb. in 1895. They winter about 600 hens and hatch from 1000 to 2000 chicks each season. This is not the largest establishment in town, but we cite it as a typical one. Many others whose names we have not mentioned here are also giving considerable attention to this valuable industry.

There are in Cumberland four large greenhouse plants which are doing a big business for the wholesale trade. In 1888, Chase Brothers erected their first houses at the old homestead. This was the beginning of the industry. In 1893 they dissolved and Arno established his large plant at the Center. He now has 10,000 feet of glass. Frank Chase, the other brother, began a new plant near the old one, moving the old greenhouses, and now has about 8,000 ft. of glass. C. H. Jenkins established his houses in 1900 and has around 6,000 ft. and Howard C. Blanchard, who built his houses last year, has over 4,000 ft. of glass.

These florists give their attention almost exclusively to carnations, which find a ready market in most of the cities of Maine, especially Portland, Augusta and Lewiston.

The industry that we shall mention last, not because it is least deserving of mention, but because it was the last "special" to be taken up, is trout farming. Two years ago Mr. Wm. H. Rowe created Roland and Rowe's ponds by building successive dams across the valley of Millbrook stream on his farm. This stream has its sources in numerous and powerful springs on the same farm, which fact gives Mr. Rowe entire control of the flow. He is now building a stone dam farther down stream for the purpose of making another, to be called Red Rock pond. If stories relating to fish are to be believed these ponds are stocked with over 5000 trout, and one 13½ inches long was taken out not long since by a gentleman who appreciates a good haul. The fishing is let out "by the pound" and is found to be as lively as that for which many disciples of Walton take long jaunts into the wilderness.

CHURCH AFFAIRS

CONGREGATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

"The Old Meeting house by the Ledge" which was erected before the town of North Yarmouth was formed in 1730, was the tenth church to be organized in the territory now forming the state of Maine. This organization was for many years the leading power, and this edifice the seat of government for the early township.

After the danger from Indians became nominal the settlers began to move back from the shore and to establish for themselves homes in the heretofore unbroken wilderness. Nor did they forget their devotion to God, for we find that the Congregational churches of both Cumberland and Walnut Hill, were formed by these pioneers.

The first daughter of the mother church was formed at Harpswell, in 1753, and the second in Freeport, in 1789. The third was the church at Cumberland Center. This church had its origin in a revival. Many who had not been interested in the church became its active supporters. In 1791, $100 was raised "to settle the gospel in the north-west part of the town." A Mr. Gregg, and also a Mr. Porter, were employed to preach alternately at "Tuttle Road," as Cumberland Center was then designated, and at Walnut Hill, now North Yarmouth. For some reason, neither of these candidates remained permanently. In October, 1792, Mr. Rufus Anderson, a native of Londonderry, N. H., and a graduate of Dartmouth, began to preach alternately at these two places.

Previous to this, however, a move had been made to build a meeting house at "Tuttle Road" and the house was erected during the summer of 1792. The "pew ground" had been sold to the members. On January 7, 1793, twenty-nine owners in the house met and formed themselves into a "proprietary," or company, "to carry on and finish the new meeting house now standing." The house does not seem to have been finished until 1798. This edifice stood nearly on the site of the present one. It was nearly square, with a hip roof and a modest steeple on the central point. It was provided with galleries around three sides of the interior. The pews were square, after the fashion of those days.

As soon as the new house of worship was up, and long before it was finished, a new church organization was formed. Twenty male members of the first church, having obtained a dismissal for that purpose, together with Rev. Tristram Gilman, pastor of the First Church, and Mr. Anderson, met on Sept. 3d, 1793, at the home of Mr. Bethuel Wood, in what is now North Yarmouth and organized "The Second Congregational Church in No Yarmouth." But it was found necessary to incorporate a parish, which was done in 1794, and the society including Walnut Hill district received the name of "The Northwest Congregational Society of North Yarmouth." There was no meeting house at Walnut Hill, though the frame of one had been raised, but regular services were held in the "Great School House."

Rev. Mr. Anderson served the parish until Oct, 1804, when he was dismissed. During his pastorate he had received 80 members into the church. It was his hands that planted the noble elms now overshadowing the village streets. These stand as visible tokens of his love and fidelity.

The church was for several years without a pastor. In 1806 many of its members were dismissed to unite with others in forming the Walnut Hill church. Since this time these two organizations have been separate, but have ever been on the most cordial terms. On Oct. 22, 1806, Rev. Amasa Smith was installed pastor. His work was especially successful and he remained with the church until May 1, 1820, when he was dismissed at his own request.

In 1820, Maine having become a state, and Cumberland about to be incorporated, the name of this church was again changed to "The Congregational Church of Cumberland."

Mr. Joseph P. Fessenden preached for some time following Mr. Smith's dismissal, but did not become pastor. Rev. Samuel Stone was the next pastor, being installed May 9, 1821, and remained until Nov. 21, 1829. Rev. Isaac Weston succeeded him in 1830. The next summer the people worshipped in a new barn, the meeting house having been taken down to be rebuilt. The present meeting house was erected during the summer, and dedicated Nov. 8 (1831). Rev. T. S. Perry, in his Historical Address delivered at the one hundredth anniversary celebration of this church, said "It was not a spirituous, but a spiritual inspiration which animated its builders." At the raising of the frame the church was consecrated by prayer before a timber was lifted, and, contrary to custom, no liquor was passed around. Under Mr. Weston's care there was an unprecedented religious awakening. In 1832, the church attained its greatest numerical strength, having then 238 members. Mr. Weston was dismissed at his own request, June 10, 1840, after a long and very successful pastorate. He labored in other fields, but returned to Cumberland where he died June 26, 1870, at 83 years of age.

Rev. Joseph Blake was the next pastor, serving for a long period of years. During the early days of his pastorate, the present parsonage was built. This is a large and well constructed brick house, and was considered, when completed, to be the best house in town. The shade trees along the street front, and in other public places, were set by him, and many fruit trees on the parsonage lot. In 1859, he was succeeded by Rev. Ebenezer S. Jordan. He received about 44 new members on confession of faith. Soon after his coming the meeting house was remodeled at an expense of $1500, a pipe organ procured, costing $1000 to $1200 and the bell purchased and hung. He remained until 1870. His successors, with the dates of their arrival and dismissal have been as follows: Rev. Uriah Small, 1870-71; Rev. G. B. Richardson, 1871-74; Rev. T. S. Perry, 1874-86; Rev. E. S. Jordan preached again for two years, 1886-88; Rev. Dan'l Green, 1888-92; Rev. Frank W. Davis, 1892—remained until about five years ago, when the present pastor, Rev. P. E. Miller, accepted the care of the church. The church is in a prosperous condition. The present membership is 126, 48 males and 78 females. There is a successful Christian Endeavor Society of about 20 active members. The Sunday School has about 150 members, with an average attendance of about half that number.

In 1885, Union Hall was given to the parish by Mr. Oren S. Thomas, to be used as a vestry—a very generous, timely and useful gift. Improvements have been made from time to time on the church edifice. It is now a comfortable and convenient place of worship and a venerable landmark, a testimony to the faith of our fathers and the zeal and piety of many successful pastors and workers.

THE CHURCH IN NORTH YARMOUTH

During the year 1794, the meeting house was built at Walnut Hill, in what is now North Yarmouth. The arrangement of one church and one parish organization with two preaching places, here and at the Tuttle Road, continued till the year 1806, when a new parish was formed at Walnut Hill. On September 30, 1806, a church was instituted composed of eight male members, coming by letter from the First Church in North Yarmouth, and six from the Second Church. Soon after, fifteen female members from the two parent churches were added by letter, together with quite a large accession upon confession of faith; and, as the early history tells us, "the new church presented a flourishing aspect." Rev. John Dutton was installed pastor upon the day of its organization. This church is now denominated The Congregational Church of North Yarmouth, Maine.

The first meeting house, built in 1704, was taken down and the present edifice erected in 1827 and extensively repaired in 1878. The vestry, upon an adjoining lot, was erected about the year 1867, by the Ladies' Aid Society, and with the lot, was deeded to the parish in 1879. The parsonage, consisting of a house and stable with three acres of tillage land, was the property and residence of the fifth pastor of the church—Rev. Caleb Hobart, who just before his decease, conveyed it to the parish as a home for succeeding ministers.

The following is the list of ministers who have served this church, as published in its manual in the year 1900:

John Dutton, installed Oct. 1, 1806, to Aug. 3, 1814; Timothy Hilliard, 1815, to 1816; O. C. Whitton, Sept. 29, 1817, to July 21, 1822; Nathaniel Chapman, supplied six months in 1823; Caleb Hobart, Dec. 2, 1823, to Dec. 9, 1859: N. H. Broughton, March 28, 1860, to May 1, 1861; Stacy Fowler, Sept. 30, 1863, to March 31, 1864; T. N. Lord, Apr. 24, 1864, to March 31, 1867; N. F. Carter, July 1, 1867, to March 31, 1869, B. P. Snow, May 9, 1869, to March 31, 1872; E. F. Borchers, Dec. 10, 1873, to April 1, 1877; T. M. Davies, June 17, 1877, to Mar. 31, 1880; H. H. Osgood, May 23, 1880, to April 1, 1883; J. B. Carruthers, Jan. 6, 1884, to February, 1889; I. B. Stuart, June 8, 1889, (ordained Dec. 11, 1889,) to June 28, 1891; Oliver Brown, Feb. 10, 1892, to Dec. 2, 1894; R. A. Farnham, May 12, 1895, (ordained Nov. 20, 1895,) to Dec. 26, 1897; W. Henry McBride, July 7, 1898, to Jan. 1, 1901; J. S. Richards, May 1, 1901, the present pastor.

METHODIST ORGANIZATIONS

WEST CUMBERLAND M. E. CHURCH

The church edifice now occupied by the Methodist society in the western part of Cumberland, was built in 1812 as a Union Meeting House. This was occupied for several years by different denominations, each furnishing their own preacher at their stated time. A class was formed in 1813, and in 1826 the present Methodist society was organized, and since that time, has never been without a preacher, though not always having a regular pastor. The parish has been united at different times with several of those surrounding, in maintaining a pastor, and is now united with the church at South Gray. The parsonage which stands in North Falmouth, just across the Cumberland line, was built while Rev. J. S. Rice was pastor in 1844; this is the property of the parish and is an acceptable home for the pastor in charge. The church was rebuilt in 1848.

The following is a list of those who have served the church as pastors or local preachers since 1844, at which time Rev. Mr. Rice came to the church. In 1845-6, J. Clough; 1847, David Copeland; 1848-9, Isaac Lord; 1850-51, S. S. Cummings; 1852, S. Ambrose; 1853, L. B. Knight, 1854, N. Hobart; 1855-6, Jesse Stone; 1857-8, N. D. Centre; 1859, Asa Green; 1861, W. C. Stevens; 1862-3, John Baxter, (local); 1864, R. C. Bailey; 1866-68, S. V. Gerry; 1869, J. M. Howes; 1870-72, J. Sanborn; 1873, E. Sanborn; 1874, J. Lidstone; 1875, Oliver Pillsbury; 1876, C. S. Mann; 1877, S. F. Harriman; 1878, Elbridge Gerry, Jr.; 1879-80, Geo. W. Barber; 1881-82, J. E. Budden; 1883-88, A. J. Dearborn, (local); 1889, Asa Graffam; 1890-91, F. C. Potter; 1892-3, A. B. Clark; 1894-5, Wm. Bragg; 1896, W. C. Wentworth; 1897-98, C. H. Abbott; 1899-1902, D. Pratt; 1903, W. H. Congdon, who is the present pastor.

CUMBERLAND AND FALMOUTH M. E. CHURCH

The two societies near the Foreside, which are united under one pastor, were included in the Falmouth and Cumberland Circuit, under the care of Rev. J. Taylor, a local preacher. In 1842 Rev. Phineas Higgins was stationed here and these two became a separate charge. The church at Cumberland was erected about 1882. The one located on the town line, at Falmouth Foreside, so called, was erected about 1831. Previous to occupying these buildings the services were held in the local school-houses. The new, neat-looking, little church, previously mentioned, was built during the pastorate of Rev. Eleazar Hutchinson, who remained with the church for three years.

The following is a list of those who have had charge of this circuit: Phineas Higgins, A. J. Webster, Joseph Hawkes, Jr., Paul C. Richmond, Benj. Burnham, David Copeland, John Lord, Silas M. Emerson, Chas. Munger, Uriel Rideout, Swanton Ranks, Ezekiel Smith, Jesse Stone, John Rice, Chas. W. Blackman, John Cobb, Swanton Ranks; he came this second time in 1864; from that date to 1881 we are unable to give the list. In 1881, Rev. E. Hutchinson came and was succeeded by Reverends. W. P. Merrill, O. S. Pillsbury, A. R. Sylvester, Chas. Pearson, Rev. Mr. Greenhalge, Daniel R. Ford, W. T. Chapman, John B. Howard, E. W. Kenniston and F. K. Beem, the present pastor.

CHEBEAGUE ISLAND M. E. CHURCH

Rev. Edward M. Whittle came to Long Island in 1808, and preached on the Island and on Chebeague for a time. Mr. Stephen Bennett was converted under his preaching, and himself became a local preacher. Mr. Bennett preached for many years on Chebeague and other islands of the bay.

In 1828, Rev. James Carruthers, a Congregational missionary, was sent to the islands. A great revival followed his preaching. In May of the same year, Moses Rollins, a Methodist preacher, came to Chebeague. Under the earnest labors of these three ministers, most of the people on the Islands were converted. In 1829, Jonas Weston and David Hill, came to Chebeague, and preached for a time. In the fall of 1839, Richard Lombard came here and remained two years. Up to this time the Island had been connected with Freeport.

In 1840, the Islands were formed into a Mission, called "Casco Bay Islands Mission," and supplied, most of the time, by preachers from Conference. In 1855, a meeting house was erected. A disagreement occurred in regard to the location, and a faction withdrew and built another house of worship, organizing a Protestant Methodist Society. Since that time the old society has been regularly supplied.

In 1885-6, under the pastorate of Rev. John Collins, an excellent parsonage was erected. In 1866, the total membership was 129.

Those who have served this church as pastors since 1879 are: Alpha Turner, 1879-80; Alvah Cook, 1881-82; True Whittier, 1883-4; John Collins, 1885-6; ———; James Wright, 1889-93; A. C. Trafton, 1894-98; Francis Grovenor, 1899-1900; F. K. Beem, 1901; W. B. Eldridge, 1902-4.

EAST NORTH YARMOUTH M. E. CHURCH

The records of the early Methodist Episcopal Church in North Yarmouth have been destroyed, thus rendering a full, connected account impossible. The early church here was connected with many surrounding stations during its history. In 1815 the first class was formed, Israel Noyes, leader, and his seven children members. The first house of worship was built in 1831. In 1833 this church was connected with Freeport circuit. In 1872 North Yarmouth was connected with Pownal and South Auburn.

In 1830 Rev. Benj. Burnham built a house and passed his years of superannuation here. This house was purchased by the Methodist society for a parsonage. Mr. Ammi Loring, a wealthy farmer of this place, was a liberal supporter of this church and of every benevolent cause. He bequeathed about $21,000 to Methodist institutions.

Pastors since 1878 have been: Daniel Waterhouse, A. C. Trafton, Benj. F. Pease, Geo. Hoyt, W. H. Foster, J. F. Keith, H. A. Pease, M. K. Mabry, A. C. Brooks, T. D. Davies, J. H. E. Richard, James Nixon, F. Grovenor, and L. H. Bean, the present pastor.

The society of Universalists which occupied the old Universalist church at West Cumberland has now become extinct, the church edifice being used for a hall for local gatherings or entertainments.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

OLD HOME ASSOCIATION—NORTH YARMOUTH

Encouraged by the home-coming of her many sons and daughters, of whose noble record she is justly proud, the town of North Yarmouth has become the home of an Old Home Association. This was organized August 6, 1902. At the last gathering, which was held at the Walnut Hill Church, Wednesday, August 17, 1904, was assembled many who have made their homes beyond the borders of their mother state, and who have made for themselves places and names which do honor to the noble precept and example of their ancestry. A day of enjoyment and the renewing of old acquaintances was participated in by all. Dinner was provided in the vestry. Auld Lang Syne was sung as the closing hymn, after the officers were chosen for the following year. We regret to say we are unable to publish the newly elected officers. Those for 1903-4 were Rev. J. S. Richards, Pres.; Chas. L. Dunn, 1st Vice Pres.; Gardiner Leighton, 2nd Vice Pres.; Chas. S. Sweetser, Sec. and Treas.; Chas. A. Allen, Chairman Com. on Entertainment; Clarence G. Hatch, Chairman Com. on Music; C. S. Sweetser, Chairman Com. on Decorations.

CUMBERLAND FARMER'S CLUB

The Cumberland Farmer's Club was organized at Cumberland Center in 1868, for the purpose of advancing the interests of the surrounding agricultural section. This organization is participated in by North Yarmouth, Yarmouth, Falmouth, and Windham, as well as the citizens of the immediate locality. The organization was moved to West Cumberland soon after its organization. The exhibition grounds and trotting park is situated between the Center village and West Cumberland. The exhibition and fair is held for two days each season, and by its receipts, together with the State stipend received annually for that purpose, pays its expenses and the premiums, which are an important feature of the club.

The present officers of the organization are: Pres. C. A. Merrill; Vice Pres. M. M. Burnham; Treas. N. M. Shaw; Sec. A. M. Crocker; Supt. of Grounds, M. M. Burnham; Supt. of Hall, E. L. Farwell; Marshall, S. L. Clough.

CHEBEAGUE ISLAND STEAMBOAT LINES

We have endeavored to gain some practical information regarding the history of the steamboat service to Chebeague Island but have been unable to do so. We regret the fact since that is one of the points of local history which we hoped to take up.

Census, 1904

The population of the towns of Cumberland and North Yarmouth has been arranged in families where that arrangement has been possible. In these families, in addition to the resident living members, the names of the non-resident members are included. It should be borne in mind that this plan does not include the names of all former residents of this town, as the names of the non-residents appear only when one or both the parents are still living in the town. After the name of each non-resident will be found the present address, when such address has been given to us. The non-residents are indicated by the (*).

In case a daughter in a family has married, her name taken in marriage will appear after her given name in parenthesis ( ), preceded by a small (m).

Following the names of the population is the occupation. To designate the occupations we have used the more common abbreviations and contractions. Some of these follow: Farmer—far; carpenter—car; railroad service—R R ser; student, a member of an advanced institution of learning—stu; pupil, a member of a lower grade of schools—pl; housework—ho; laborer—lab; physician and surgeon—phy & sur; clergyman—clerg; merchant—mer; teacher—tr; blacksmith—blk; clerk—cl; book-keeper—bk kpr; lawyer—law; mechanic—mech; engineer—eng; insurance—ins; maker—mkr; worker—wkr; work—wk; shoe shop work—s s work; fisherman—fm; mariner—mar; poultry—plt; mill operative—mill op; electrician—elec; painter—ptr; carriage work—car wk.

This Census was taken expressly for this work during the summer of 1904, by R. C. Russell and W. R. Strout, of Kent's Hill, Me.
